So, uh... everyone has a story, right? Like, uh... like, "a bad thing happened to me and this is why I'm like this" story. Uh, I certainly have that story. A couple, in fact. Uhm... when my fiancée, uh, ex fiancée, left me. The time I was tripping balls and fell off the roof of the library in college. They day my dad died. Uh, I used to not tell these stories, you know. I used to keep 'em locked away 'cause whatever, people die. And my ex fiancée's boss had his own plane. And I dropped a shit ton of acid. Which - which was, to be totally honest, super fun until I broke almost every bone in my body. But I used to keep that pain to myself, 'cause that's what I was taught to do. Until, one day, my friend's dad died. And he called me crying, and we are dudes that never cry. And he said "How did you do it, man? How did you... deal with all the pain?". And... I sat for a long time and realized, uh... I didn't.
